12th Street Café, 1900 S. Mock Ave., Muncie, 286-1901

Amazing Joe's, 909 N. Wheeling Ave., Muncie, 282-9470

Bird's Smokehouse BBQ

9008 S. Walnut St., Muncie

378-1900, birdssmokehousebbq.com

Slow-cooked hickory smoked meats are featured in this friendly log cabin just blocks from I-69 (exit 34). Tender pulled pork, ribs, chicken and beef brisket all get smokey on site, and then join signature giant spuds and traditional sides such as green beans and macaroni and cheese.

Bruner's, 2200 W. Kilgore Ave., Muncie, 288-2711

Burkies Drive-In

1515 W. Jackson St., Muncie

765-282-4355

Featured in the Indiana Foodways Alliance "Diners and Drive-In's" Culinary Trail

Burkies is an old-fashioned drive-up and eat-in-your-car spot with bellhops in attendance. Their fresh hand-cut fries have won awards, and they go well with the burgers, tenderloins, steak and cheese, chicken, barbeque and coneys on the tray in your window. Cherry Cokes, milkshakes and sugar cream pie make the little brown and white striped building in a residential area a nostalgia feast, and the neon sign with the arrow is the icing on the cake.

Carter's Almost Famous Hot Dogs, 3501 N. Granville Ave., Muncie Mall, Muncie, 288-8790

Eva's Pancake House

1617 N. Wheeling Ave., Muncie

896-9219, evaspancakehouse.com

Featured in the Indiana Foodways Alliance "Rise and Shine" Culinary Trail

The friendly staff at Eva's serve up strawberry stuffed French toast, Belgium waffles, omelets and shredded hash browns to a big crowd, but the secret recipe buttermilk pancakes are the feature: they are light, but with perfect texture, slightly sweet and served with butter and confectioners sugar. Many of us don't even need syrup to enjoy these excellent pancakes. There's a full lunch menu as well, and fresh ground Kona coffee, but Eva's closes after lunchtime. The restaurant's local success has led proprietor Eva Angelopoulos to open additional pancake houses in Anderson and Pendleton.

Pete's Duck Inn

721 W. Walnut St., Albany, IN

789-8488

Featured in the Indiana Foodways Alliance "Tenderloin" Culinary Trail

Traveling along Route 67, you'll see a gray roadside building with a smiling duckling on an elevated sign - that's Pete's Duck Inn, a fine example of traditional Hoosier cuisine. If it's Thursday, Greg will be slow grilling ribs out back for the daily special, and on Wednesdays all-you-can eat frog legs are featured. Pull right in and find a seat in the dining room or on the bar side, which allows smoking. Phil (Pete) and Carol Peterson have run the Duck since 1987, and it's a friendly casual place where good food is taken seriously. The extensive menu says they specialize in pan-fried chicken, charbroiled steaks and chops, but the stuffed shrimp, gizzards & livers, Cajun catfish and salads are worth the trip as well. Pete's Duck Inn is also known for its hefty breaded or grilled pork tenderloin sandwiches. Pete says he doesn't pound them thin because his customers like the predominant taste the premium pork he uses.
